Dr. David Ahearn

Dr. David Ahearn is first and foremost a practicing dentist, committed to advancing dentistry. His two thriving offices rank among the nation’s most productive practices. Trained in prosthetics at the University of Michigan, Dr. Ahearn, like many of us, struggled to reconcile his desire for the highest quality possible with the requirements for practice success. His discovery of the principles found in the Toyota Production System in the early 90’s – and his subsequent application of them to dentistry – began a quality and productivity revolution that is at the heart of his design work.

He is the founder of Design/Ergonomics, the nation’s largest independent dental office design firm, Ergonomic-Products, a manufacturer of high-productivity, ergonomically sound dental equipment, and Reboot Training, clinical consultants dedicated to maximizing practice productivity. Combined, his companies work with doctors across North America to design, equip and train comfortable, productive and highly cost effective practices.
